

Bradley A. Bauerly

Lecturer in the Department of Political Science
Faculty of Global and Regional Studies
University of Vermont
bbauerly@gmail.com
802-598-6978

EDUCATION:

- 2015 PhD, Political Science
 York University, Toronto, Ontario Canada
- 2007 M.A., Sociology
 Boston College, Chestnut Hill, Massachusetts
- 2005 B.S., Political Science
 Montana State University, Bozeman, Montana
 Graduated with High Honors

PUBLICATIONS:

Books:

2016 The Agrarian Seeds of Empire: The Political Economy of Agriculture in U.S. State Building, Published as part of Brill's Studies in Critical Social Sciences Series. Published September 2016, 310 pgs.

Peer Reviewed Journals:

Under Review 2022: "Dialectics of Power: Rural Class Struggle and U.S. State Building in the 19th Century." New Political Science

March 2020: "Economic Transition, Class Formation, and the Superintendent State in the "Old Northwest", 1860-1900". In a special issue of Journal of

University of Vermont - Lecturer; Fall 2018-present
North Shore Community College - Assistant Professor; Fall 2017-Fall 2018
Norwich University - Adjunct Instructor; Fall 2014-Spring 2017
Saint Michael's College - Adjunct Instructor; Spring 2016-Spring 2017
Johnson State College - Adjunct Instructor, Fall 2015-Spring 2017

Brad Bauerly 2017. The Agro-Industrial State: Agrarian Movement Influence on Early U.S. State Building.

May 26, 2014 Congress of the Humanities and Social Sciences, Quebec City, Quebec, Canada

Bauerly, Brad 2014. Food and Finance: Assessing the Food Price Crisis Through Public Policies. (peer reviewed)

April 14, 2010 North America Historical Materialism, Toronto, Canada

Bauerly, Brad 2009. The Global Food Crisis: Reviewing and Interpreting Recent Analysis (peer reviewed)

April 24, 2008 The Great Lakes Political Economy Conference. York University, Toronto

Brad Bauerly 2008. The Nation-State, Identity and Capitalism: Late Development and Organic Crisis

Aug.13, 2006 American Sociological Association 101st Annual Meeting: Great Divides Transgressing Boundaries. Palasdes congres de Montreal, Montreal Quebec (peer reviewed)

Bauerly, Brad 2006. Power Legitimization and Hegemony: The Contradictions of U.S. Foreign Policy

May 18, 2006 International Social Theory Consortium Conference: Theorizing Power in the Post 9/11 World. Virginia Tech University, Roanoke Virginia (peer reviewed)

Bauerly, Brad 2006. Power Legitimization and Hegemony: The Contradictions of U.S. Foreign Policy

INVITED PRESENTATIONS:

"The Superintending State: Situating Resistance and its Abatement in the American Transition to Capitalism", Presented at Sussex University, Department of International Relations, September 21st, 2017.

RESEARCH GRANTS:

- Summer 2020 Co-PI awarded UVM ARS Food Systems Research Center Rapid Response to COVID-19 Grant for "Impacts of COVID-19: Harnessing a critical window of opportunity to prepare farmers for shifts in consumer behavior" of $18,964.
- Summer 2020 Co-PI awarded UVM ARS Food Systems Research Center Rapid Response to COVID-19 Grant for "Agility in the face of disruption: Food business rapid response to COVID-19" of $19,892

RESEARCH EXPERIANCE:

- Fall 2015 Interim Data Assessment Manager for the College of Education, Health and Human Services, Plattsburgh State University, New York
- Summer 2010 Research Assistant for Leo V. Panitch Canadian Research Chair In Comparative Politics team member
- Summer 2009 Research Assistant for Leo V. Panitch Canadian Research Chair In Comparative Politics team member
- Summer 2008 Research Assistant for Leo V. Panitch Canadian Research Chair In Comparative Politics team member
- Fall 2007 Invited Member of Boston College Sociology Cross-national Quantitative research team
- Spring 2007 Invited Member of Boston College Sociology Cross-national Quantitative research team

ACADEMIC SERVICE:

- 2020 Political Science Department Student Course Evaluations committee member
- 2019-2020 Political Science Department Lecturer RPT Guidelines committee member
- 2017-2018 North Shore Community College NEASC Review Committee

